ERASE INDIFFERENCE CHALLENGE 2026 APPLICATION FORM

The Erase Indifference Challenge (EIC) is a global competition rewarding established, field-tested initiatives with a proven track record of converting passive bystanders into active responders against discrimination. We evaluate verified field results and operational models, not unproven plans or future ideas.

The Challenge is about more than financial support. Selected projects may also be featured on the Erase Indifference Platform, giving them greater visibility and making it easier for others to discover solutions that are already working in practice.

Through the Platform, we aim to build and expand a global community committed to addressing indifference to discrimination, while sharing effective and inspiring solutions. It provides a space for visibility, exchange of ideas, and connections between organizations, helping proven approaches reach new communities and contexts. In this way, selected projects can gain opportunities for greater reach, collaboration, and further development of their impact.

For detailed information, please visit our official website. Additionally, all the details can be found in our Challenge Manual.

Emin Buğra Saral is the founder and engineering manager of Logical Spirituality (1234S.org), overseeing strategic direction, development, preventive health research, and international legal strategy. He holds a B.S. in Computer Engineering from Koç University and brings engineering experience from global tech hubs, including Silicon Valley and Munich. Since transitioning to the project full-time, he has synthesized spiritual understanding, technical architecture, and international human rights litigation into a unified system of thought framework.

Organisation / institution experience

Please briefly describe your organisation's relevant experience. Focus on previous projects or activities related to combating discrimination, addressing indifference to discrimination, civic engagement, or raising awareness about social exclusion. (Max 1500 characters)

Logical Spirituality (1234S.org) addresses systemic discrimination, civic disempowerment, and social exclusion by confronting their root causes: corporate overreach, digital addiction, and institutional health dependence. Operating as an independent, self-funded initiative, our experience centers on active civic engagement, international human rights advocacy, and open-source public tools.
Our primary accomplishment in civil advocacy is international legal accountability. On October 16, 2026, we filed Complaint WHRC 37992 with the UN Human Rights Council. This action directly challenges Big Tech practices that exploit psychological vulnerabilities, profit from digital addiction, and deepen socioeconomic inequality. By using international and regional human rights mechanisms, we stand up for marginalized populations facing institutional neglect and systemic stress.
Technologically, we combat digital exclusion through non-addictive, human-centered UI frameworks built on open-source softwares. Our platform ensures universal access to medicine-free preventive wellness tools, dismantling economic barriers to health and self-determination.
Through the teachings of Logical Spirituality, integrated legal action, and public awareness initiatives, we challenge corporate indifference and provide practical tools for civic resilience and true sustainability. We empower individuals to reclaim physical health, mental autonomy, and equal participation in society.

Partner organisations / institutions

Please list the organisations or institutions you work with on this project. For each one, give its name and briefly describe its role, e.g. "Name – role". This may include project partners and organisations providing professional or operational support (e.g. legal, accounting, HR, technical or communication services). Please do not list individual people. If you do not work with any organisations or institutions, please enter "N/A". (Max 1500 characters)

PROJECT OVERVIEW

Project description *

Please provide a detailed description of your project. Focus on the main idea, objectives, target groups, and key activities. Describe how the project is implemented in practice and how it addresses indifference to discrimination. This section should explain what the project is and how it works, providing context for its activities. (Max 5000 characters)

The central thesis of Logical Spirituality is that modern societal suffering, ranging from chronic illness and mental health crises to political disempowerment, is driven by extractive economic models, predatory tech architecture, and institutional reliance on pharmaceutical dependency.
The project seeks to:
- Reclaim Digital Autonomy: Develop non-addictive, human-centered UI frameworks that eliminate dark patterns and behavioral exploitation.
- Promote Health Self-Determination: Provide accessible, medicine-free preventive wellness protocols rooted in scientific truth and natural health principles to reduce reliance on commercial healthcare systems.
- Establish Legal & Corporate Accountability: Utilize international legal channels to challenge systemic corporate overreach and secure public health restitution.
- Foster Logical & Spiritual Cohesion: Synthesize rigorous scientific reasoning with spirituality to build community resilience against social injustice in a global scale.
Target groups of this project directly serves three key demographics:
- Individuals Impacted by Digital Addiction & Mental Fatigue: Users seeking digital tools designed for clarity and focus rather than attention monetization.
- Communities Facing Health Inequalities & Chronic Stress: Population segments disproportionately affected by lifestyle-induced illnesses and high financial barriers to preventive care.
- Civic Advocates & Human Rights Defenders: Activists and citizens seeking transparent, legal, and open-source models to challenge systemic corporate exploitation and state-level indifference.
Logical Spirituality translates its mission into practical execution across three operational pillars:
- Open-Source Software Development: We architect and deploy non-proprietary software built with TypeScript and Next.js available at 1234S.org. The platform is designed without addictive engagement loops, data-tracking mechanisms, or invasive algorithmic profiling, establishing a blueprint for ethical digital spaces.
- Preventive Health Protocol Synthesis: We formulate and freely distribute practical, research-backed lifestyle guidelines. These protocols detail the wholeness and justice in nature, enabling individuals to understand their health independently within equality and freedom principles.
- International Legal Advocacy: On October 16, 2026, we formally submitted Complaint WHRC 37992 to the United Nations Human Rights Council. This pioneer legal action directly targets Big Tech practices that exploit psychological vulnerabilities and profit from public health degradation, setting an international precedent for corporate restitution. On November 6, 2026, another Complaint for Annulment in the Interest of Law has been sent to the Ministry of Justice of the Republic of Türkiye.
Indifference to discrimination often stems from institutional apathy toward the structural conditions that keep vulnerable groups marginalized. Discriminatory practices today are frequently embedded in algorithmic designs that divide communities, foster isolation, and capitalize on social anxiety. Furthermore, economic barriers to healthcare leave low-income populations exposed to chronic disease, deepening social inequality.

Logical Spirituality directly addresses this indifference by:
- Dismantling Financial Barriers: By making all software and health protocols open-source and freely accessible, we remove profit motives and provide equal access to vital health tools regardless of socioeconomic status.
- Challenging Systemic Big Tech Overreach: International and regional complaints confront the quiet tolerance of digital practices that disproportionately harm vulnerable demographics. By framing digital exploitation as a fundamental human rights issue, we force public visibility and legal scrutiny onto practices previously accepted as industry norms.
- Empowering Civic Self-Sufficiency: We educate everyone for the true understanding of nature with Logical Spirituality. We guide individuals and communities to participate actively in civic life rather than remaining passive consumers in an extractive economy.
Through lean operations (€350/month gross burn rate) and absolute operational independence, Logical Spirituality demonstrates that a self-funded model can effectively challenge global institutional norms and deliver sustainable, systemic impact.

Results & reach

Please describe the main results and reach of your project. Include key outcomes such as the number of activities delivered, participants reached, resources or tools developed, geographic reach, or other measurable results. Where possible, provide specific figures or data. (Max 3000 characters)

Logical Spirituality (1234S.org) has established key operational outcomes across a new political system of thought (philosophy), software development, international legal advocacy, and preventive health understanding. Operating on a lean, self-funded model (€350/month burn rate) out of Of, Trabzon, the project delivers global access to non-addictive digital tools and open-source resources.

Software Infrastructure and Digital Tools Developed

- Open-Source Codebase: Built and deployed the complete non-proprietary web framework using TypeScript and Next.js, hosted publicly at 1234S.org. The platform runs zero personal data-tracking scripts, zero ad modules, and zero addictive engagement loops.
- Medicine-Free Health Protocols: Published unofficial research-backed preventive health guides covering the teachings of Logical Spirituality, and interventions designed to eliminate pharmaceutical dependency.

International Legal Advocacy and Systemic Action

- International and Regional Complaints: Prepared and formally submitted Complaint WHRC 37992 to the United Nations Human Rights Council on October 16, 2026. This legal milestone targets Big Tech overreach, establishing an international framework for public health restitution and algorithmic accountability.
- Policy and Legal Framework Public Access: Made all research documentation, complaint structures, and legal arguments fully open-source to provide civic advocates with templates to challenge corporate digital exploitation.

Reach and Audience Engagement

- Geographic Reach: Global distribution through the web platform at 1234S.org, serving users around the global without regional restrictions or paid access barriers.
- Direct Access Model: Delivered 100% free access to all software repos, health protocols, and legal advocacy materials. By eliminating paywalls and subscription models, the project ensures zero financial barriers to entry for individuals from lower socioeconomic backgrounds.

Operational Sustainability and Efficiency

- Execution Efficiency: Achieved continuous 100% full-time development and operations since 2019/2023 under a single-founder model backed by part-time financial support.

- Financial Sustainability: Maintained uninterrupted project runway and absolute organizational independence without relying on third-party venture capital or corporate sponsorships.

Manifestation of indifference

Please explain how your initiative addresses passivity or indifference in the face of discrimination and how it encourages people to recognize, respond to or take action when discrimination occurs.(Max 2000 characters)

Passivity toward discrimination often persists because traditional responses target symptoms while ignoring the cognitive and structural exhaustion that breeds public apathy. Logical Spirituality activates resistance to systemic unfairness through three targeted, non-repetitive mechanisms:
- Transforming Apathetic Users into Informed Advocates: Algorithmic platforms profit by keeping populations isolated and outrage-weary. Rather than releasing content that competes for attention, our platform architecture sets a new standard for ethical digital space, proving to users that digital exploitation is an addressable human rights issue rather than an unchangeable norm.
- Decoupling Civil Engagement from Commercial Gatekeepers: Discrimination thrives when marginalized groups lack independent tools to organize or maintain health. By delivering zero-cost preventive health strategies and open public resources, we remove the financial tax on basic well-being. Individuals who are physically resilient and financially unburdened are structurally better positioned to challenge institutional neglect.
- Lowering the Barrier to Systemic Legal Recourse: Most citizens feel powerless because challenging large-scale overreach seems reserved for well-funded legal institutions. By making the methodology, structural analysis, and filing strategies behind our UN human rights action publicly available, we demystify international advocacy. This equips local leaders and grassroots groups with actionable templates to challenge institutional indifference in their own communities.

Social impact and behavioural change

Please describe the concrete changes that have occurred as a result of your project. Focus on changes in awareness, attitudes, behaviours, relationships, or social conditions among participants and/or the wider community. Please provide specific examples or evidence of these changes, such as survey results, testimonials, observed behavioural changes, or other data. (Max 2000 characters)

Logical Spirituality drives measurable shifts in individual behavior, digital consumption habits, and community health self-determination by addressing the systemic causes of cognitive and physical distress.
Concrete Behavioral & Lifestyle Shifts
- Transition from Pharmaceutical Reliance to Lifestyle Interventions: Individuals adopting our medicine-free preventive wellness protocols report reduced dependence on over-the-counter medications and commercial healthcare management.
Shifts in Civic Awareness & Legal Attitude
- Reframing Digital Exploitation as a Human Rights Issue: Prior to our public filings, community

participants largely viewed algorithmic manipulation and digital fatigue as inevitable personal shortcomings. Through the publication of UN Complaint WHRC 37992 (submitted October 16, 2026), wider civic groups now recognize predatory tech architecture as a structural public health violation, shifting public sentiment from passive acceptance to active legal awareness.
- Adoption of Open-Source Civic Tools: Local advocates and independent researchers have begun utilizing our open legal methodologies and preventive health frameworks to address health inequalities within their own networks, proving that self-funded, lean initiatives can effectively challenge institutional indifference without corporate capital.

Ethics & safety *

Please briefly describe any safety measures or considerations in place to support bystanders when responding to discrimination. (Max 800 characters)

Logical Spirituality prioritizes bystander safety through structural preparation, mental resilience, and de-escalation rather than direct physical confrontation.
Our framework supports bystanders through three key measures:
- Physical & Mental Resilience: We provide medicine-free preventive protocols so individuals maintain emotional stability, clarity, and focus during high-stress situations.
- De-escalation & Analytical Mindset: Our digital tools and philosophy foster calm reasoning over outrage, training bystanders to assess conflicts objectively without escalating hostility.
- Legal Literacy & Safe Action: We supply open-source legal knowledge so bystanders can safely document rights violations and leverage formal channels instead of risking physical harm.

Applied innovation *

How is your approach to addressing indifference to discrimination different from traditional methods, and why does it work? An existing tool or method applied in a new way or context also counts.(Max 800 characters)

Traditional anti-discrimination efforts rely on awareness campaigns or moral appeals, which often fail against outrage fatigue and institutional apathy. Logical Spirituality introduces a structural model targeting the root causes of civic inaction rather than its symptoms.
Instead of competing for screen attention, we build non-addictive interfaces to restore cognitive bandwidth. We bypass commercial healthcare barriers by offering open preventive health protocols, giving individuals the physical resilience needed for active citizenship. Finally, we convert passive concern into institutional action using open legal frameworks like international and regional complaints. This works because mental clarity, health autonomy, and legal tools are essential prerequisites for civic resistance.

ADAPTABILITY

Adaptability *

Could your initiative be adapted to other communities, contexts, countries or forms of discrimination? Please describe the potential for your initiative to be adapted beyond its current context.

You may consider other communities, countries, social or cultural contexts, or forms of discrimination, and explain what could be adapted and how. (Max 1500 characters)

The Logical Spirituality movement (1234S.org) is inherently modular, making it directly transferable across diverse geographic, cultural, and socioeconomic contexts without requiring an immediate structural alteration. Because our initiative targets the foundational mechanisms of human biology, digital infrastructure, and international law rather than localized political narratives, its core components can be adapted seamlessly worldwide.
Technologically, our non-addictive interface framework and open-source TypeScript codebase can be deployed by any grassroots organization, community group, or educational institution seeking to build digital environments free from behavioral exploitation and algorithmic polarization.
Health-wise, our medicine-free preventive protocols rely on universal realities explained with true science. These frameworks require no commercial infrastructure, making them immediately adaptable to low-resource settings, marginalized rural populations, or healthcare-deprived urban centers globally.
Legally, the strategy established by UN Complaint WHRC 37992 provides a scalable blueprint for international human rights advocacy. Community leaders anywhere can adapt these open legal mechanisms to hold multinational corporations accountable for digital overreach and systemic public health degradation.

EVIDENCE & SUPPORTING MATERIALS

Supporting evidence

Please list the documents, materials or other evidence you could provide at Stage 2 to support the information and results described in your application. This may include reports, presentations, photos, screenshots, links, data or other relevant materials. Please include a short description of each item.

You do not need to submit these materials now. If you are selected as a finalist, we will ask you to provide the relevant materials after you are notified that you have advanced to Stage 2 and before the individual finalist meeting.

- UN Human Rights Council Filing (WHRC 37992): Submission receipt, formal complaint text, and supporting legal documentation filed on October 16, 2026, targeting corporate overreach and public health restitution.
- Open-Source Codebase & Architecture Repository: Direct repository access and technical documentation for 1234S.org, showcasing the TypeScript/Next.js infrastructure, zero-tracking compliance, and non-addictive UI components.
- Preventive Health Protocol Frameworks: Published digital guides and research syntheses detailing medicine-free health protocols and lifestyle interventions.
- Financial & Operational Records: Itemized expense logs verifying the sustainable €350/month gross burn rate and self-funded runway model.
- Academic & Legal Background Verification: Official academic transcript and diploma (B.S. in Computer Engineering from Koç University) for project lead Emin Buğra Saral.
